

A Dream Come True

October 12, 2005

The National Club Baseball Association is happy to announce that My Sports Dreams has re-signed as an Official Fundraising sponsor of the league. MSD is currently one of the “largest and fastest growing companies dedicated to helping college teams raise money quickly and easily.” They are endorsed by 10 national coaching associations.

For those of you who did not use their program last year, with only one hour of work before practice of work you can easily raise thousands of dollars to help meet your budget. Last year they helped three-time National Champs, Colorado State with meeting the demands of another championship run. CSU has found the My Sports Dreams program to be a huge success. According to CSU President David Schultz, “We've grossed a little over $8,000 with their program.”

Not only that, MSD guarantees that if you follow their program exactly as it is laid out, that if your team does not make back double materials fee, you just have to pay them 50% of whatever you collect (it's based on the honor system since checks are returned to you). The average college baseball team will earn $4,000.

To receive a custom proposal for your club baseball team explaining all the details, please contact My Sports Dreams toll-free at (800) 376-5988. Ask for Megan Murphy, the My Sports Dreams fundraising director dedicated to the NCBA. To learn more about their program and read about other success stories visit their website.
