2022-2023 Season Outlook: Going into the World Series as the number 1 team in the country and making a deep run last year expectations are extremely high. We know what it takes to get back but this time holding up the trophy at the end of the year is the ultimate goal.

Manager Quote: “ When it comes to this 2022-2023 season it's quite simple. We have 11 returning D1 players, 10 players moving up from D2 and 5 brand new additions from tryouts. With both D1 and D2 teams falling just short of a title last year you can tell there is a chip on everyone's shoulders and a determination to get back in that position this year. This is the deepest team Penn State has seen at every position in years. It will take a complete team effort to reach the goals we are trying to achieve this year relying heavily on returning 5th year and senior leadership. If we continue to work hard and get better each and every day, learn how to play together, and take each game one at a time, the potential of this team is through the roof. I believe this team will accomplish very special things as I can not wait to get this season going.” - Cam Medic

2022-2023 Season Outlook: We are returning a strong core from last year's regional team that along with our new additions led us to a very successful fall season. Our biggest strength this year is our depth, both in the pitching staff, and throughout the lineup top to bottom. Every game someone different steps up. This was a major key to us winning 5 games in 2 days to win the Wood Wars tournament in Euless, TX. Our team is motivated to get back to the regional tournament and make a deep run in the postseason.
