2024 Season Outlook: This is a much improved team on both sides of the ball. Our starting lineup has returned its most impactful pieces while adding a handful of new guys, giving it threats from 1 through 9 in the order. On the mound is where we have improved the most though. Our pitching staff struggled last season, but we have added over half a dozen new quality arms, creating a staff that can compete with anyone in our conference and hopefully further. After a few tough seasons, this group provides our club with the best opportunity to get back to playing quality baseball in years.

Excited to travel with the team and make a ton of memories as a team. We have a lot of new talent that came to tryouts so we are eager to get another season started in the NCBA.

Manager Quote: "This is a very different team makeup than I have seen in my 3 years playing for FSU in the NCBA. As well as it is my personal first time as an executive member of the team having to manage all off the field duties. I'm very intrigued to see how this younger team performs as we have 15 new players who were added to the roster this year. We are very deep this year in pitching and our bats are going to continue to be very prevalent during games. We've always been an offensively heavy team however this year it seems to be about equal in pitching talent during competitive scrimmages. Obviously the end to our season last year was not what we envisioned but what doesn't kill you can only make you stronger. Overall FSU Club Baseball is still here, we keep receipts."

Manager Quote: “In my 4 years as a player and executive board member of this club, this is the best team I have seen yet. With an ample amount of returning players (many of them being seniors) combined with new talent, this team is primed for a playoff spot. Solid defense is found at all 8 positions in the field and the pitching staff has improved significantly with the addition of new arms and the development of older ones. The bench is significantly deeper than it has been in the past few years, which will allow for routine starters to rest more than they used to. Last season, the Yellow Jackets lost 5 games decided by 2 runs or fewer. The close losses from last year have a strong chance of being W’s this year as we only lost 1 routine starter.

In the fall, the Yellow Jackets played in the Greenville Invitational. Despite not moving on to the Final 4, a win against South Carolina and a 1-run loss to Eastern Carolina have proven that Georgia Tech can hang with the best of the best. Another fall highlight includes a 3-game sweep over UT Chattanooga.

Look for the Jackets to make some noise in this conference this year.”

2024 Season Outlook: Kennesaw State completely reloaded their roster following a rough 2023 season that failed to capitalize on a 2022 Regional Playoff Berth. The 6-5 fall record does not reflect how well the Owls played in our 11 games, and as this unit plays together more, it will only get better. The Owls are looking to show the country what we've got going on here in Kennesaw and bring home our first National Championship since the 2013 squad won the D2 World Series.

2024 Season Outlook: Last season our D1 team earned its first ever Conference Championship and trip to the Regional Tournament, where we finished 1-2 with a win vs FGCU and losses from FSU and FGCU. Coming into the fall we brought back a strong returning class while seeing some key pieces from our 2023 team graduate. From our new class of players, a good mix coming up from our D2 team and some new to our organization, we believe this is a far better team than what we fielded last year. Some areas that we found ourselves weaker in have become our strongest aspects, notably a pitching staff that has grown in size and in talent and a strong hitting lineup all the way through.

This fall we had games scheduled against Elon, NC State and UVA, along with the Greenville Invitation where we placed 2nd and played UNC, Emory, App St, ECU, and UConn. For the spring we've got some more great non-conference competition scheduled with UGA, ECU, and UCF. We have placed a strong emphasis on scheduling high-quality competition to get us ready for our conference games and a hopeful return back to Peachtree City.

This team has had a chip on its shoulder ever since falling short in both Regionals and the Greenville Championship game and we can't wait to the 2024 season starting off against UGA come February 3rd.

Manager Quote: "After falling short in regionals last year our guys have been working hard all fall to help us get back to Peachtree. Our seniors and a great new class of players have one goal: playing for National Championship ."

2024 Season Outlook:

UNC-Charlotte Club Baseball is gearing up for an exciting season, backed by a robust pitching lineup that posted a commendable 3.36-team ERA last fall. Leading the charge is Logan Palmer, the ace known for his consistent strikes and leadership on the mound. CJ Brown brings a mix of speed and control, while Donovan Henkel's sidearm delivery adds a different approach to the Niners bullpen. Freshman Nathan Peine is showing promise with his pitch design and his ability to throw 5 pitches for strikes, and Alec Steene, known for his cutter, is expected to deliver some heat and movement to the starting rotation. Bullpen arm Collin Ross is a reliable late-innings guy, often sealing the game with his heavy fastball.

Coach Trent Carr, with a wealth of knowledge and a knack for pitch design and scouting reports, leads this skilled group. His ability to anticipate the opponent's approach and will to adapt quickly has become a trademark of UNC-Charlotte's skill, making the team a tough competitor.

On the offensive side, the team boasts hitters like Zander Burton, whose consistent batting average keeps the team in the game. Sully Stevens is the power hitter everyone's watching, capable of changing the game's momentum with one swing. Veteran Joey Tuders brings experience and a steady hand to the lineup, while Tommy Bost, the star catcher, is expected to have a standout year with both his defensive skills and at the bat.

Josh Schindler's report encapsulates the mix of talent and strategy that makes UNC-Charlotte Club Baseball a team to watch this season. With a balance of seasoned players and rising stars, coupled with a coach who's always thinking one step ahead, the team is poised for a memorable run. Keep an eye on the 49ers as they aim to turn their potential into a winning reality.
