2025 Spring Season Outlook: The University of Arizona Club Baseball team is poised for an exciting 2025 spring season. After two challenging years, including a suspension last spring due to a miscommunication with a field rental agreement, our team has regrouped and is ready to move forward with renewed focus and energy.

We've used the past two seasons to rebuild both our roster and our team culture, fostering an environment that prioritizes camaraderie, competitiveness, and professionalism. With 14 returning players bringing valuable experience and 16 talented newcomers eager to contribute, we're confident in the foundation we've built.

Under the leadership of our three player-coaches—Bryce, Colin and Griff—the team is prepared to tackle a demanding schedule of six series, five of which will be on the road. Thanks to our successful fundraising efforts this fall, raising over $15,000, we are well-positioned to handle the logistics of extensive travel and focus on competing at a high level.

This season represents a pivotal moment for the program, as we aim to set a new standard for success and establish a winning culture. We're ready to demonstrate the hard work and dedication that define Arizona Club Baseball.

Players to Watch: Matthew Thompson, Sean Li, Peyton McGowen, Jeremy Mills, Tyler Cina

Biggest Rival: UNR

Best Player Nickname: Maxwell "The Weatherman" Hartman

2025 Spring Season Outlook: We're anticipating a strong performance this season, bolstered by key additions during the free agency period. The roster features 11 new players, with 4-5 expected to play pivotal roles in our core lineup. This past fall, we emphasized team-building to ensure strong chemistry, which was crucial given that half the squad is new. Defensively, this team is poised to excel, and our offense has made significant strides compared to last year. While the pitching staff faces some challenges following the graduation of key contributors, we've added promising new arms to the rotation. With these improvements, we aim to be competitive and contend for the top spots in the conference.

Manager Quote: "Cal's 4-0 record against Stanford i since my arrival at UC Berkeley feels less like coincidence and more like destiny in motion. Yet, even amidst triumph, there remains room for reflection—Fernando Mendoza, I am disappointed in you." – Braeden Jones

Biggest Rival: Cal Poly

Best Player Nickname: Michael "Money Mike" Curatolo

2025 Spring Season Outlook: Following a somewhat quiet performance in the 2024 season, the Bruins have added critical young talent to their roster in hopes of propelling the team back to the top of the conference and fighting for a playoff spot. Complemented by a senior class who has experienced regionals and fueled by a seasoned head coach entering his third year, UCLA is excited to showcase their improvements throughout all phases of the game. Our offseason focused heavily on advancing pitching depth, and with numerous high-class freshmen we feel confident this has succeeded. Accompanied by new players both hitting for power and average who run the bases well, UCLA hopes to define this season by playing a complete game and winning the subtle game details. With a packed January and February leading into season, the Bruins expect to benefit from competitive preseason games to prepare us for a thrilling conference schedule!
