The fall season went well, where we went over .500, led the NCBA in runs scored per game, and had multiple players receive accolades from the NCBA. With this being our 3rd consecutive year as a program, we have improved each and every year and have high expectations for what we can accomplish as a team. Our goals are still well within reach, and we can't wait to see where we stand with some really good teams this spring!" - James Roberts (President)

2026 Spring Season Outlook:

Despite 2025 getting out of hand quickly for us there were a ton of close baseball games we played throughout the year. Whether that be us hanging onto tight games in Vegas with Utah and Utah State, or conference games with OSU and Oregon. A big component we have this year is depth which cost us a few games last year. We are coming in with a group of starting pitchers that prioritize throwing strikes and controlling the zone and hitters that get on base and aren't phased by the moment. Look for Colin McBride and Greydon Radke to do some serious damage in the middle of the lineup.

Our approach has already been more focused this year. We have guys with a wealth of experience both joining the team this year from other schools and returners that have 2+ seasons of club ball under their belt to give some confidence in their ability to win more games this year.

Manager Quote:

I have already seen the commitment and development improve from last year to this year in our team. The team is much more cohesive and mature in the way we operate and play. After a successful fall, we hope to continue the winning culture WWU has historically had into spring.
